Airline Reservation System

Austin Albrechtsen

What does this product do?

- Allows airlines to add flights with details about the flight and availability
- Allows customers to choose flights and book them
- Allows customers to choose which class they would like to fly in for a flight
- Allows customers to pay for a flight booking with card information
- Determines availability of bookings for a flight
- Determines whether payment information given is valid

Who utilizes this system

- Airlines will utilize this system in order to update and keep track of the flights they have

- Customers will use this system to reserve and purchase flight bookings

Roadmap of Demo

- Present how visual studio code was used in order to create code for the system
- Present how github has all the documentation of the code, testing, and data collection
- Present how the apache database executes the code written
- Present the use cases of this system
- Present future modifications that will be made